21 APPEARANCES:
22 ERIC BOST, UNDER SECRETARY FOOD, NUTRITION AND CONSUMER
23 SERVICES.
24 DONALD ARNETTE, SOUTHEAST REGIONAL ADMINISTRATION.
25 JESSICA SHAHIN, DEPUTY ADMINISTRATOR FOOD STAMP OFFICE.

1 (Thereupon the forum had commenced as

2 the court reporter set up and the following
3 proceedings were transcribed.)

4 MR. BOST: Good afternoon and welcome.
5 I'm Eric Bost, and I am the Food Nutrition and 6 Consumer Services Under Secretary. This is one 7 of several forums that we are having around the 8 country in preparation and in anticipation of 9 the Farm Bill Legislation that Congress will 10 consider in 2007.

11 We have six titles that will be discussed,
12 the Food Stamp Program, Food Distribution
13 Program on the Indian reservations, Commodity
14 Distribution Program, the Senior Farmers Market 15 Program -- I'm missing one. Those are the 16 programs, of course, with the largest being the 17 Food Stamp Program.

18 One of the initiatives that the President 19 and I talk about is insuring, before we put 20 together our ideas, to afford the public and 21 any other interested party the opportunity to 22 share with us their ideas about the programs 23 that we administer on behalf of people in this 24 country.

25 Of the 15 nutrition programs that we

3

1 administer, the largest, of course, is the Food
2 Stamp Program, serving about 26 million
3 Americans every month. Over half of those are 4 children.

5           During the course of the last Food Stamp
6       review which was in 2002, several major changes 7       was made to the program and we will consider 8       changes in '07. But this is not about us.
9       This is about you.

10           This is the opportunity for you to share 11       with us your opinions, recommendations, 12       thoughts, visions, whatever, regarding the 13       programs that we have a responsibility for 14       implementing.

15           There are a couple of things that I would 16       share with you. First and foremost, for all of 17       the nutrition programs that we administer, one 18       of our guiding principles has been to insure 19       that eligible people have the opportunity to 20       participate in our program and that we make it 21       easier for them, easy for one, to access those 22       programs and two, for our partners, that we 23       make it easy for them to implement our programs 24       without compromising the integrity that exists 25       in our programs.

4

1           Those are guiding principles that remain
2       true. And even as we go into '07 will still 3       remain true in terms of recommendations that we 4       will present to Congress in anticipation of 5       their debate.

6           As I said, this is an opportunity for you
7       to share with us your thoughts, your views.

8 This isn't a debate. If I have questions I 9 might ask you, but more than anything else we 10 are here to listen.

11 I have Don Arnette, who is the regional 12 administrator over at this shelter, and Jessica 13 Shahin, who is the associate administrator with 14 the Food Stamp Program, that are here with us 15 today. And several other staff, Steve and 16 Karen and others. And we are here to listen to 17 what you have to say.

18 Mr. Arnette, I think, will establish the 19 ground rules in terms of how we are going to do 20 this. The one thing that I will say to you 21 before I close is that, as I said before, we 22 have had several of these around the country.
23 One was held in Detroit yesterday. I will be 24 doing one next week in Portland, Oregon.

25 We will roll the comments up. They will

1 be available on our website so that people from 2 other places can hear what other people had to 3 say and look at those similarities or 4 differences that exist. And we anticipate
5 being able to do that some time towards the end 6 of the year or the first of the new year, 7 because we will complete these hopefully by the 8 middle of November.

9 So with that in mind, I will turn it over 10 to Mr. Arnette and we will go ahead and get it

11 started.

12 MR. ARNETTE: Thank you, Mr. Bost.

13 Housekeeping issues for the day.

14 One, attendees that have written comments 15 may leave them in the boxes designated for 16 written comments. One is at the registration 17 table and one is here in the forum area to my 18 right.

19 Two, for attendees making oral statements,
20 you were provided with a blue form with a 21 number and a location by the left or right. If 22 your card has a right then you will speak from 23 the microphone on your right and those with the 24 left will speak from the microphone on your 25 left.

6

1 Three, at the front of the room Karen Dean
2 will hold up a card with a number on it. That 3 will be your cue to move to the line, so that 4 you will be ready to speak when your turn 5 comes.

6 Four, before you begin to make your 7 statement, please state your name, your 8 affiliation and provide your city and state.

9 Five, originally we had allotted a time
10 limit of three to five minutes. However, it 11 appears that we will have ample time to 12 accommodate everyone if your comments exceed 13 five minutes.

Miami.txt

14 If time becomes an issue Karen, on my 15 right, will hold up a yield sign for you to 16 begin concluding your comments.

17 (Laughter.)

18 MR. BOST: And more importantly, if you 19 try to ignore it I'm going to tell you to sit 20 down.

21 (Laughter.)

22 MR. ARNETTE: And that will be after she 23 has shown you a stop sign, you must end your 24 comments.

25 Lastly, we will take a short break around

7

1 2:45 p.m., but if you need to leave the forum
2 before that time, please feel free to do so.

3 So with that, Mr. Secretary, we are ready
4 to begin the conference itself. Karen, could 5 you call the first one.

6 MS. MILES: I'm Linda Miles and I'm with 7 the Florida Department of Elder Affairs in 8 Tallahassee and I'm representing the Senior 9 Commerce Program and Nutrition Program.
10 (Inaudible) has increased the income of farmers 11 nationwide by expanding access to fresh fruits 12 and vegetables to low income seniors in our 13 community.

14 This program operates in 47 states,
15 territories and organizations nationwide.
16 There are over 15,000 small vegetable farmers

17 and 2,400 farmers market and 170 roadside 18 stands that utilize this program nationwide.

19 In 2005 states funding requests were over 20 28 million. This was almost double the 21 available funds provided by the current Farm 22 Bill.

23 Florida has a very small program that is 24 currently operating in seven counties. This 25 year we had 205 growers that were participating

8

1 in our program. Our funding, which was
2 supplemented by a state vitamin settlement
3 anti trust grant allowed us to serve 3300
4 eligible seniors. However, with our 5 supplemental grant ending next year, we will be 6 needing additional funds in 2007 in order to 7 prevent a reduction in the number of seniors we 8 are currently serving.

9 In getting ready for this I wanted to go
10 over some aging Florida population data and I
11 was overwhelmed and I'm sure you will be too.

12 In the year 2000 there were over 700,000
13 Floridians age 65 or over with incomes below
14 (inaudible) poverty. This number represented 15 25.8 percent of the total population age 65 or 16 older. The 2005 census data now reports there 17 are 3.1 million Floridians age 65 or older, and 18 if we are assuming a similar poverty rate we 19 now have about 800,000 Floridians who that are

20 65 or over with incomes below (inaudible)
21 percent poverty.

22 Florida is the second largest senior 23 population in the country. I believe 24 California has 5 million.

25 So as this stands confirms, there is a

9

1 tremendous and growing need in Florida to 2 expand the Senior Commerce Market Nutrition
3 Program. This program has many strengths and 4 I'm going to bring out two that I find real
5 important. It's a very fiscally sound program.
6 The administrative cost associated with this 7 program are kept to a minimum, allowing the 8 majority of the funding to actually reach the 9 farmer.

10 My background happens to be in nutrition,
11 so the second part I'm particularly interested
12 in. The Senior Farmer's Market Nutrition
13 Program is a health promotion disease
14 prevention program. It addresses the 15 nutritional needs of a high risk population 16 that is expected to reach 71.5 million by the 17 year 2030.

18 This program provides low income seniors 19 financial resources that will allow them to 20 increase their consumption of fresh fruits and 21 vegetables and improve their overall 22 nutritional status. We know that improving our

23 nutritional status reduces the risk of chronic 24 disease and may have a positive financial 25 impact on healthcare cost.

1 On January 12th, 2005 HHS Secretary Tommy 2 Thompson and USDA Secretary Ann Veneman
3 released the 2005 dietary guidelines. These 4 guidelines provide science-based advice to 5 promote health and to reduce the risk of major 6 chronic diseases through diet and physical 7 activity. The dietary guidelines recommend 8 that Americans consume four and a half cups, 9 which is nine servings a day of fruits and 10 vegetables.

11 We also know that major causes of 12 immobility and mortality in the United States
13 are related to a poor diet and sedentary
14 lifestyle. Seven out of ten Americans who die
15 each year, which is more than 1.7 million, die
16 of a chronic disease and more than 90 million 17 Americans live with chronic diseases.

18 Chronic disease accounts for more than 19 75 percent of the nation's $1.4 trillion we 20 spend on healthcare. In the elderly 21 population, 88 percent of people over 65 have 22 at least one chronic health condition and 23 21 percent of chronic disability.

24 In summary, the Senior Farmer's Market
25 Nutrition Program makes a positive difference

1 to the farmer and the senior consumer. I hope 2 that as future opportunities arise you will 3 consider providing additional funds for our 4 farmers and seniors through the Senior Farmer's 5 Market Nutritional Program.

6 Thank you.

7 MR. CAHILL: I'm Paul Cahill from Cahill
8 Ministries Food Bank in Lakeland, Florida and 9 we are part of the TEFAP Program. I would like 10 to just -- I want to first thank you for the 11 opportunity for having us allow to share with 12 you this morning.

13 I want to speak for reimbursement for 14 expenses. Under the current method, 15 reimbursement for expenses is a verification of 16 expenses. I want to go over a couple of things 17 here. Under the current method number one, is 18 very time consuming. And number two, it has 19 very high limitations and drawbacks.

20 To give you an example on that, purchases
21 in this current program cannot exceed $5,000.
22 We distribute over a quarter of a million of 23 pounds of food a month.

24 For example, we desperately need a second 25 forklift. The one we have was purchased used.

1 It's very old and it's used eight hours a day.
2 There are many occasions we need two forklifts
3 running at the same time. A good forklift 4 cannot be purchased for under $5,000 and that's 5 even a used one at that.

6 The second thing is purchases under the 7 current program from a thousand to five 8 thousand dollars need prior approval before 9 purchasing. Example, request to purchase two 10 electric pallet jacks at $4,900 each four 11 months ago was denied. In the last four months 12 we have spent over $8,000 in repairs. We still 13 need two electric pallet jacks.

14 Under the current system recipient 15 agencies receive all this free food and 16 therefore cuts into the finances that we have 17 to operate on. Even though we are nonprofit 18 our expenses do run $40,000 a month. There has 19 always been an encouragement of delivery and we 20 really need as many of the recipient agencies 21 coming into the food banks so they can get the 22 product first to continue to operate and still 23 work the way it needs to be done to the 24 fullest.

25 There are two methods of reimbursement

1 that are available. The verification of 2 expenses is the current method and there is 3 also the verification per case allocation

4 distribution. Our recommendation is the per 5 case distribution -- reimbursement at six 6 dollars a case in order to effectively run the 7 program to its fullest. Thank you very much.

8 MR. GILMER: Good afternoon. I'm Ray 9 Gilmer, Director of Public Affairs for the 10 Florida Fruit and Vegetable Association. We 11 are based in Orlando. We represent the fruit 12 and vegetable growers here in the state.
13 Welcome to Florida. I also speak to you today 14 as a member of the board of the prestigious 15 Produce for Better Health Foundation, the 16 organization that administers the 5 A Day 17 Program, which promotes eating five fruits and 18 vegetables a day for better health.

19 I want to thank you and your staff of the 20 USDA for the ongoing support of 5 A Day and the 21 work and the recent development of dietary 22 guidelines and the new MyPyramid Program.

23 Obviously, health sciences suggest the 24 promotion of the fruit and vegetable
25 consumption helps Americans live healthier

1 lives but the economics suggest it also helps
2 American producers like ones that I represent 3 here in Florida who are currently trying to 4 batten down the hatches and put things away
5 before the weather gets bad.

6 The 2007 Farm Bill is a great vehicle for

7 implementation of policy that will help 8 accomplish both objectives for nutrition as 9 well as help American farmers. When you
10 consider Americans on average get about three 11 and a half daily servings of fruits and 12 vegetables, it's clear that we need to do more 13 to promote produce consumption. The new 14 MyPyramid site is a wonderful tool for finding 15 individual recommendations and helps the 16 consumers to make the right choices about what 17 they eat. It would be hard to plug in 18 anybody's data and get only a three-serving 19 recommendation. So we clearly need to do more.

20 All we need is reduction to the new 21 dietary guidelines and the new pyramid. The 22 produce industry encouraged promotion of the 23 Health Foundation to look at fresh ways to 24 communicate the message to American consumers.
25 It's a retuning of the 5 A Day grant, if you

1 will, and as part of that process we conducted
2 some new research with American consumers, 3 especially moms, in a handful of cities to 4 learn attitudes about fruit and vegetable
5 consumption including retail experiences, 6 preparation outfits and their goals for their 7 healthy lifestyle.

8 We didn't just ask the questions, we spent 9 the day with them. We went shopping with them.

10 We prepared breakfast and got ready for work
11 and school and tried to get into their heads 12 about how they organized their meals and how 13 they were able to get everybody fed during the 14 day.

15 So here is some of what we found, to share 16 some of that with you. People noticed that 17 they wanted to make changes to their diets, but 18 being told to double or triple their current 19 consumption just didn't resonate with them.
20 They said they had a greater affinity for 21 dietary recommendations which were more doable.
22 People responded to the message that every 23 little step adds to a healthier lifestyle.
24 Many expressed guilt or frustration, especially 25 moms, at not being able to meet the recommended

1 daily servings. So some encouragement about at 2 least making a healthy start may help keep them
3 motivated in response to future messages.

4 The recommendation of five, or nine or 5 thirteen servings a day were perceived by the 6 moms as unachievable and therefore not really 7 motivated. So on the other hand, that suggests 8 that the fruit and vegetable consumption should 9 be a certain percentage of total daily intake, 10 say, 50 percent, for example. It's easier and 11 more comprehensive.

12 Moms we surveyed said that they trust

13 their doctors medical groups and Oprah on the 14 consumption of nutrition and they are skeptical
15 of advertising. They said we can't really 16 expect them to respond to scare tactics or our 17 preaching to them. We need to treat moms and 18 other consumers as allies for a campaign 19 America. They want to be there. They just 20 want help.

21 So how does this translate to some 22 recommendations for the Farm Bill? Well, USDA
23 and Congress can help these moms and consumers 24 in general get more fruits and vegetables in 25 their diet and you've got a great start with

17

1 the MyPyramid Program. We are telling her this 2 is what they should be eating, but they need 3 more help to reach those goals, whether it be 4 for cash purposes, Food Stamp programs, food
5 service choices or other things.

6 One was to help establish a new fruit and 7 vegetable domestic marketing program to enhance 8 competitiveness and provide consumers with 9 information about the many benefits of fruits 10 and vegetables. This will be a federal 11 matching program patterned after the current 12 market access program that's used for promoting 13 export markets. And it would be matching funds 14 administered directly by the USDA in which the 15 produce industry marketing boards, commissions,

16 not-for-profit organizations and grower
17 cooperatives could develop domestic marketing
18 programs to increase fruit and vegetable 19 consumption and apply for matching funds from 20 the government based on the market expanding.

21 Now because the fruit and vegetable
22 industry is so diverse and most individual 23 commodity groups are relatively small, it's 24 difficult to generate the kind of marketing 25 wherewithal to promote a single product,

1 especially when you consider many larger food 2 marketers that are out there that we are 3 competing with.

4 And secondly, I encourage you to strongly
5 consider developing a research agenda that goes 6 beyond the very specific nutrients and focuses 7 on research that's available now, and focuses 8 more on the health benefits of fruits and 9 vegetables.

10 Plus, if we are really going to put the 11 needle on fruit and vegetable consumption, we 12 need a much more comprehensive consumer 13 behavior research program, like some of the 14 very minor research that I delivered to you 15 today, that assess barriers to increased
16 consumption of fruits and vegetables, things 17 such as convenience, concerns about spoilage, 18 preparation and cost. This would greatly

19 assist us in our efforts to drive healthier 20 eating patterns.

21 And with that knowledge in hand we could 22 find funding for development of packaging and 23 delivery systems to make it easier for kids and 24 adults to choose fruits and vegetables for 25 snacks and meals on the run. Every little bit

1 will help.

2 So thanks for your attention in this 3 important issue. I look forward to working 4 with you and your staff in the months ahead and 5 with Congress as the produce industry,
6 nutrition experts, healthcare and scientific 7 communities develop a healthy America in the 8 Farm Bill for 2007. Thank you.

9 MR. WIEDMAN: Good afternoon. My name is 10 Julie Wiedman and I'm from Second Harvest Food
11 Bank of Central Florida and I'm a fellow 12 (inaudible). I am so pleased to have the 13 opportunity to be here this afternoon. I thank 14 you very much and Second Harvest Food Bank of 15 Central Florida is an affiliate of America's 16 Second Harvest and I urge you to resist making 17 any further budget cuts to the Farm Bill.

18 Hurricane Katrina and the recent disasters
19 highlighted the needs that we have for the USDA 20 nutritional programs, but we face the need 21 every day in our mission to fight hunger in

22 Central Florida. And the Food Stamp Program is 23 a vital tool in that fight.

24 So I would first like to express my 25 gratitude at the USDA's quick response to the

1 recent disasters. The Food Stamp emergency 2 allotments were there immediately for the 3 evacuees in Central Florida and we appreciate 4 that. The disaster response worked very well.

5 However, in our everyday fight we find
6 that the USDA must raise the minimum Food Stamp
7 allotment level. Food Stamps last the average 8 family two weeks out of the month and the other 9 two weeks of the month they are going to food
10 pantries. They are going to soup kitchens. It 11 places extra stress on the people that serve, 12 you know, food pantries and soup kitchens. And 13 the clients can't afford eat healthy meals, 14 because we all know that fruits and vegetables 15 are more expensive than a box of macaroni or 16 they are on a tight budget that they cannot 17 afford fruits and vegetables or anything 18 nutritional.

19 And we also urge you to conduct for 20 outreach. In Florida only 54 percent of 21 eligible persons received Food Stamps in the 22 last fiscal year. That's not very many. If 23 people don't know that they are qualified,
24 especially the elderly, the most underserved,

25 but we need to get the word out there that more

1 people are eligible to receive these benefits.

2 And the program also needs to improve its 3 customer service and accessibility. I have had 4 the opportunity to speak with many clients who 5 are eligible to receive Food Stamps and they 6 choose not to because it's too much of a hassle 7 to deal with the Food Stamp office, or they 8 cannot get there. The clients don't have 9 transportation. So I have seen programs such 10 as Access that have helped very much, you know, 11 accessibility, bring the Food Stamps to the 12 food pantries where the clients are, help them
13 to get the Food Stamps, but we need more 14 outreach and we need -- the process needs to be 15 simplified for administrators and for the 16 recipients.

17 I was honored to personally meet and 18 interview around 50 recipients of Food Stamps.
19 America's Second Harvest did a national hunger
20 study and it's called Hunger in America 2005.
21 The results will be out at the end of the year.

22 I had the opportunity to meet with a 23 single mother of two at a local food pantry in 24 Central Florida, and she took 20 minutes of her 25 time. The interview was very personal. I

1 often wondered why clients were answering the 2 questions. I don't know if I would do the same
3 if I was in their situation, if I would sit 4 down with somebody and answer very personal 5 questions for 20 minutes. And she got very 6 emotional and I did a number of these 7 interviews and I wanted to do something 8 immediate for her. She said the only thing she 9 wanted was for people to know what it was like 10 to be a single mother of two and try to feed 11 your family nutritiously. And that it's not 12 possible when you receive Food Stamps. And she 13 just hoped that the word would get out and 14 other families would not have to go through the 15 same thing.

16 So I would leave you with that. Thanks 17 for your time.

18 MS. DUKES: Good afternoon. My name is 19 Shannon Dukes and I'm a graduate student at 20 Florida International University in the 21 Nutrition and Diabetes Program here in Miami.
22 I'm presenting comments on behalf of the 70,000 23 member American Diabetes Association, the 24 nation's largest food (inaudible) and nutrition 25 professionals.

1 The public needs an uncompromising

2 commitment to advance nutrition knowledge and 3 to help people use that knowledge to maintain 4 and improve their health. Millions of 5 Americans benefit from the USDA nutrition 6 programs, yet we still have hunger in the 7 United States. It is ironic that hunger 8 continues, given our national epidemic of 9 overweight and obesity. And overweight and 10 obesity are now recognized as the largest 11 manifestation of malnutrition in the United 12 States today.

13 So the next Farm Bill needs to address
14 four key issues. USDA nutrition assistant 15 programs must be adequately funded to serve all 16 of those in need. The nutritional (inaudible)
17 that all Americans need are higher priority
18 overall. This should be done by increasing,
19 rather than cutting funds for nutrition
20 assistance and other FNS Programs.

21 There is a need to increase and sustain 22 USDA investment in nutrition education and 23 nutrition research. There is also a serious 24 need to keep the food supply up to date as it 25 is essential to researchers and the American

1 public.

2 If we expect Americans to take personal 3 responsibility for making healthy food and 4 lifestyle choices, they need to be adequately

5 prepared to do so. USDA must invest in more 6 nutrition research and nutrition education to 7 give Americans the ability to make sound
8 nutrition decisions based on sound science.

9 The federal government has a mandate to 10 support research on food needs of its 11 population and to develop dietary as a basis
12 for all federal nutrition programs. We commend 13 them for the most recent work on the MyPyramid 14 and the 2005 (inaudible).

15 We urge you not to shortchange the public
16 by cutting funds for good nutrition programs 17 such as Food Stamps, school meals and other 18 programs.

19 Applied research documenting the benefits
20 of these programs and healthy diets in general 21 is also well worth our dollars as taxpayers.
22 Thank you.

23 MS. GIBBONS: Good afternoon. My name is 24 Juani ta Gibbons. I'm with Destiny Food Depot 25 in Orlando, Florida. We are a faith-based

1 organization. We do not receive funding from 2 the government or anyone else and our motto is 3 a hand up, not a hand out. That does not mean 4 that we don't service many people who come in 5 crisis who have absolutely no money, but we try 6 to make partnerships with people that are in 7 need and so they pay a very small suggested

8 donation for the foods that they get. We have 9 meats and dry foods and vegetables. And we are 10 also an access center, which is working 11 wonderfully, because so many working families 12 that would -- that are eligible, but would 13 never go and stand for hours at one of the DCF 14 centers trying to see if they are eligible.

15 We are open six days a week. They will 16 come to purchase foods and at the same time 17 they will do the access and so many of them are 18 eligible and it definitely helps.

19 We started as just an adjunct to our 20 church. A small 3,000-foot area on 21 September 1st of 2001 and 911 hit ten days
22 later. We went from servicing about 150 people 23 to 600 families that first month and we since 24 have moved and we opened up two other centers 25 in two other counties, Orlando, Osceola and 26

1 Brevard. And we service 30,000 families now.
2 Just in our Orlando center we service 3- to 400
3 families a week.

4 Our biggest problem has come with the USDA
5 and Farm Share. We used to get a lot more
6 vegetables that we could provide for the people 7 from Farm Shares and their funding got cut and 8 so we get very little of that.

9 USDA, it's been so difficult to get USDA.
10 We haven't had USDA in three years almost. We

11 got it the first year and with the hurricanes
12 the amount of the people that we are servicing 13 from these hurricanes are still in need, not 14 just the ones in Florida but the Katrina
15 victims that have come over. We've seen a 16 tremendous increase just in the last two months 17 with the Katrina victims. And it's very 18 difficult to continue to service the people.
19 So many of our other sister agencies like us
20 have just folded, because they couldn't afford 21 to stay open.

22 We need to make USDA more accessible to 23 the small community agencies and the 24 faith-based organizations, how to get it. I 25 know that we applied to some people who have

27

1 had it and they denied us because we do not 2 give the food away, but so many of the 3 agencies, and we studied this, are closed 4 because they depended totally on donations and 5 people's desire to donate. They just have 6 different projects and the people are still 7 there that need to eat. These families and 8 seniors and single parents that need to feed 9 their children.

10 I'm a registered nurse by profession and I
11 was a visiting nurse for nine years. And I 12 have been into these homes and I've seen how 13 people eat because they don't have in money, so

14 I encourage that you make USDA more accessible 15 to the small agencies. Thank you.

16 MS. INGRAM: Good afternoon. My name is 17 Frankie Ingram. I am the chief Commodities 18 Manager for Farm Share. Farm Share was 19 established in 1992. We recover fresh fruits
20 and vegetables donated to us by the Florida
21 farmers and administer the USDA TEFAP Program
22 in Miami-Dade County, Broward County, Palm 23 Beach County and Desoto County.

24 We serve approximately 25,000 households
25 per month. We operate with a handful of 28

1 volunteers, a small staff of 15 employees and 2 up to 24 inmates that we receive from the 3 Florida Department of Corrections. And we do 4 not charge any fees for our services to the 5 recipients or the agencies.

6 First, I would like to thank you,
7 Mr. Secretary, for allowing us to exchange FSA
8 dry milk into-- to convert it to other 9 products, such as stable shelf tomato soup, 10 stable shelf liquid milk and chocolate pudding,
11 which enhances our TEFAP Program.

12 In addition to distributing TEFAP
13 commodities to faith-based organizations and 14 community-based nonprofit organizations in our 15 four counties, we have a successful and a 16 unique program at Farm Share. Our distribution

Miami.txt

17 program we call the IDC, which is the 18 Individual Distribution Center.
19 We serve approximately 5,000 individual
20 families who reside south of Miller Drive 21 monthly at our site in Homestead, Florida. The 22 process is new recipients may sign up any 23 Tuesday or Thursday from 1:00 to 3:00 p.m.
24 They will need a picture ID and documentation
25 that shows that they live south of Miller

29

1 Drive. They complete the TEFAP certification
2 eligibility form to take home, which is valid
3 for one year. Recipients receive a Farm Share 4 card and an appointment slip to come to our 5 Homestead location on Monday, Wednesday or 6 Friday between the hours of 9:30 and 3:00 p.m.
7 And every first Saturday of the month we 8 accommodate those families who also work Monday
9 through Friday.

10 We use a software program called Office
11 Hours Appointment Schedule, and that's a 12 schedule that the doctors use to schedule their 13 patients for appointments, which keeps us up to 14 date with the people we serve and about how 15 many times they get food from us each month and 16 keep those records.

17 Each recipient can come once a month.
18 Sometimes they have an alternate if they cannot 19 come. And we serve a lot of elderly people who

20 sometimes other family members can come and 21 pick up food for them.
22 What are the benefits of this program? It 23 prevents long lines and improves the quality of 24 life for elderly and disabled recipients.
25 Reasonable pick-up days and times. Each

30

1 recipient receives the same allocation.
2 Recipients receive fresh fruits and vegetables 3 donated by the farmers in addition to their 4 monthly TEFAP commodities.
5 A Farm Share priority to me would be to 6 expand our individual distribution center to 7 accommodate the TEFAP families north of Miller
8 Drive in Miami-Dade County, and operate similar 9 distribution sites in Broward and Palm Beach 10 Counties and perhaps throughout the state of 11 Florida using a pilot program.
12 Thank you, Mr. Secretary, for giving me
13 this opportunity. I'm very passionate about 14 this program. I was a VISTA volunteer for two 15 years and this was my project and it has worked 16 very well for the people in South Dade, 17 Florida. Thank you very much.
18 MS. FERRADAZ: Good afternoon. My name is 19 Gilda Ferradaz. I'm the director of programs
20 with the Department of Children and Families 21 here in Miami, District 11. I'm speaking on 22 behalf of the district and also on behalf of 23 the central office in Tallahassee who is not 24 able to attend here this afternoon.

25 Of the six USDA programs that are being 31

1 reviewed for reauthorization, my remarks today
2 will focus on the Food Stamp Program. The 3 Florida Department of Children and Family is 4 committed to providing services to help Food
5 Stamp recipients and those eligible to make 6 informed decisions to choose healthy foods and 7 lead active lifestyles.

8 Two projects currently in operation within 9 DCF are the Food Stamp Nutrition Education
10 Project and the State Nutrition Action Plan.
11 Florida's Food Stamp Nutrition Education 12 Project began in 1996 with a contract with the 13 University of Florida's cooperative extension 14 service to provide nutrition education to 15 eligible low income audiences.

16 The University of Florida's cooperative
17 extension services currently is the only 18 provider of Food Stamp nutrition education in 19 Florida and is active in 22 counties.

20 The mid year report for project year 2005
21 shows over 166,000 clients have been directly 22 served by Food Stamp nutrition education
23 activities. Social marketing and other 24 indirect contacts such as newspaper articles, 25 radio, newsletters and displays has reached an

1 additional 376,000 clients.

2 Evaluation of those participating in depth 3 lessons show greater than 70 percent of the 4 participants demonstrate increases in dietary 5 quality, shopping behavior and food resource 6 management and general nutrition.

7 Considering the time and effort required 8 by state and local staff to prepare and 9 administer an annual 50 percent reimbursement
10 budget for the Food Stamp Nutrition Education 11 State Plan and the time and effort spent by 12 USDA with all aspects regarding the budget, 13 perhaps it would be cost effective to consider 14 a different funding motto, such as the one used 15 for the expanded food and nutrition program.

16 Without the need to solicit documents and 17 report income, service to support direct 18 spending projects would have greater 19 flexibility to target locations that provide 20 activity to Food Stamp recipients and those 21 likely or potentially eligible.

22 The Food Stamp Interagency Food and 23 Nutrition committee provides oversight to the 24 state nutrition action plan activities.

25 The Florida Interagency Food and Nutrition

1 Committee is a multi-agency committee that in 2 part has representation from each state agency
3 that administers USDA/FNS Programs.

4 One of the primary roles of the Florida
5 Interagency Food and Nutrition Committee is the 6 creation of a common nutrition message that can 7 be promoted by all members of the Florida
8 Interagency Food and Nutrition Committee.

9 An example of successful activities and 10 campaigns are the low fat or fat free milk, 5 A 11 Day the Florida Way and Snack Smart, Move More.
12 The next campaign will kick off in early 2006
13 and will focus on serving size. Be Wise About 14 Your Portion Size.

15 From a federal perspective, our 16 recommendation is to continue to stress the 17 importance of snack activities and encourage 18 states to expand their efforts in this regard.
19 This will assist in raising awareness of the 20 snack activity in each state and reinforce the 21 need to support these projects.

22 These two projects demonstrate the 23 department's commitment to promote good
24 nutrition in Florida, working cooperatively 25 with other state and federal agencies in an

1 efficient way to maximize our resources and 2 convey consistent behavior nutrition messages
3 to the citizens of our state. Thank you.

4 MS. GREENFIELD: Good afternoon. My name
5 is Valory Greenfield. I'm a staff attorney 6 with Florida Legal Services for (inaudible) for 7 25 legal services individual programs
8 throughout the state. I'm located here in 9 Miami, Florida. I'm here on behalf of those 10 advocates working at those programs who assist 11 Food Stamp applicants and participants.

12 Our comments today concern privatization 13 of the technological improvement in the 14 eligibility determination component of the 15 Florida's Food Stamp program. In Florida the 16 Department of Children and Family is 17 implementing its vision for an improved future 18 called modernization.

19 Modernization boosts public assistance
20 program access to technology based methods
21 supported by a wide variety of private entry 22 points which are not run by the state.

23 Modernization relies on outsourced
24 community partners to handle most application 25 and reapplication aspects of Food Stamps as 35

1 well as (inaudible) and Medicaid.

2 DCF has passed the community with 3 distributing and accepting paper application, 4 maintaining computer terminals where people can 5 electronically apply or recertify, and 6 providing access to equipment such as drop

7 boxes, phones, copiers, digital images and fax
8 machines so that documents could be submitted
9 to DCF mechanically or through intermediaries 10 instead of in person by clients.

11 Modernization relies on technology
12 additionally through web based application
13 sites and delivering customer service through 14 the internet, as well as centralized call 15 centers with automated phone systems and 16 integrated voice response on a 24/7 basis.

17 For clients who need special assistance in 18 applying or recertifying, in-person assistance
19 might be available through community partners 20 depending upon what level of service the 21 partner has agreed to take on. Alternatively,
22 individualized systems might be rendered at DCF 23 satellite offices.

24 Contracting out this function to private 25 vendors is also a possibility where there is no

1 DCF satellite office and no community partner 2 is involved because of liability, conflict of 3 interest or cost sharing concerns.

4 DCF's current plan technically keeps the 5 final eligibility determination in-house, at 6 least for now, at DCF Hub Centers, which are 7 supposed to be technologically linked with 8 community partners in order to provide instant 9 access as needed.

10           As part of modernization, DCF has been 11           systematically closing offices or scaling back
12           to satellite shell offices. At least 30
13           offices have already been closed or are slated 14           for imminent closures. In other locals most or 15           all case workers have already been laid off en 16           masse and only a shell office remains as a 17           repository.

18           In surveys we did in counties where there 19           have been layoffs or office closures people had 20           some very compelling complaints about 21           modernization.

22           A Food Stamp participant in De Funiak
23           Springs says, "My office closed. I have no 24           transportation to get to the nearest office, 25           nor did they tell me where the nearest office

1           is."

2           In Panama City, "Sometime in the fall the 3           cases were moved to Jacksonville. Now it takes 4           a couple of times to get my calculations
5           correct. They seem to lose the faxes."

6           In Crestview, Florida. "The couple of 7           workers who are at Jobs Plus will not see 8           anyone unless they are applying. You can't ask 9           them any questions."

10           Another Food Stamp participant, "You must 11           come in and put all papers within a brown 12           envelope and drop it off in a drop box, but you

13 can't see a worker. Instead of talking to 14 someone while you are in the office, they make 15 you call the customer service for everything."

16 In Chipley, Florida, "I can't go pick up 17 and drop off papers because I can't afford the 18 gas to get there. You don't have one person to 19 talk to who is familiar with your case. You 20 speak with a different worker and they don't 21 know what's going on. I have to call an 22 automated system and I don't know any answers
23 to the questions asked on the automated 24 system."

25 In Ft. Walton Beach, "I never get the same

38

1 caseworker and I keep being told by each one
2 something different."

3 And finally in Crestview, Florida, "Poor 4 people don't have computers and most rely on 5 help from real people, but you can't get help 6 except by telephone. We need a local office."

7 These folks were using the phone. They 8 didn't even try to use DCF's web-based 9 application site, which generated this 10 interesting exchange between two legal services
11 attorneys. Attorney one: Have you guys seen 12 this, the access website? I swear it wasn't 13 there yesterday. Attorney two: I couldn't get 14 it to load, could you? Attorney one: It
15 checked my configuration and then said the page

Miami.txt

16 cannot load. Attorney two: I was really going 17 to try to test it, but the page wouldn't load.
18 I'm not sure if that's DCF's fault or my 19 computer's fault. Attorney one: Here is a 20 link to some known errors and how to fix them
21 if your operating system is XP. Good if you
22 know how to work a computer. Very complex
23 instructions for someone with limited reading
24 and computer skills. Anyway, after I
25 downloaded the Windows XP service pack and then

39

1 downloaded Active X Software I was still only 2 able to get to Page 3 of the application. I'm 3 not even on an XP platform. I use Windows
4 2000, says attorney two. There is no help 5 information for that.

6 It's no wonder that DCF's web-based 7 Interactive Access Application has been 8 significantly challenged by an eligible 9 disabled caregiver who was unable to use it to 10 apply online. The case remains pending and the 11 Access Program is being revised for deployment
12 in 2006. I'm getting a one-minute signal, so 13 if you will indulge me.

14 Our message today is that Florida Legal 15 Services advocates believe that the current 16 waiver (inaudible) and policy options must 17 continue in order to insure the overall 18 structure of the program, even while states are 19 asking for flexibility in the delivery of 20 benefits.

21 While improved customer service through 22 the Internet and other emerging technologies 23 are important opportunities, it is also 24 important to insure that these technologies are 25 fully available to those without access to or

40

1 the skills to manipulate technology as well as 2 the limited English proficient, the disabled
3 and the transportation disadvantage.

4 It's equally important to insure that all 5 of these vulnerable individuals still have 6 access to local offices with trained staff or 7 face-to-face assistance when needed.

8 Florida's modernization experience, as I 9 have explained today, actively demonstrates 10 just how critical an issue this is for people.

11 The Food Stamp program does enormous good.
12 Its national structure and federal guarantee of 13 benefits are critical to ameliorating hunger 14 and poverty and responding to economic 15 downturns. It must be preserved and 16 accessible. Thank you very much for the 17 opportunity to speak.

18 MR. BOST: Thank you.

19 MS. WEST: Hello. My name is Denise West
20 and I am the Public Health Nutrition Program 21 Director for the WIC and Nutrition Program for 22 the Miami-Dade County Health Department.

23 Our Health Department mission is to 24 promote and protect the health of our community
25 through prevention and preparedness. Emergency

41

1 preparedness and the importance of a rapid 2 coordinated response from federal nutrition 3 programs to state and local communities during 4 a disaster or public health emergency is the 5 subject of my remarks today.

6 As the Health Department Nutrition Program
7 we are required to complete a Continuity Of 8 Operation Plan also known as COOP. These are 9 federal requirements that are now coming down.

10 This plan needs to address our response to 11 natural disasters, such as a hurricane that 12 might be occurring any minute now in Dade or 13 any day now, as well as potential natural or 14 manmade biological threats, such as an anthrax
15 release or a pandemic outbreak of Avian Flu.

16 We are finding few answers to the 17 questions we are raising locally to plan for 18 maintaining the nutrition needs of our 19 citizens, but tearfully vulnerable infants and 20 children.

21 I would like to pose a few of these 22 questions so that on the federal level you all 23 can begin to think about how we could begin to 24 respond. And maybe this will have some impact

25 on some legislative or regulation changes that

42

1 need to be made to address this in the future.
2 Hopefully we will never need it, but we are 3 having to plan, so I think it's important that 4 we think.

5 For example, following a major natural 6 disaster such as Andrew or Katrina, how can we 7 assure a safe form of infant formula is 8 positioned to be immediately delivered along 9 with ice and water? Non-breast fed babies who 10 need formulas every few hours have an immediate 11 critical need for formula. Following Hurricane 12 Andrew, and I was very much involved in this,
13 we experienced a flood of callers from both WIC
14 and non WIC families needing formula because 15 of unsafe water, lack of refrigeration, and 16 subsequent spoilage, and a damage
17 infrastructure to retail stores, so they were 18 not even able to go out and purchase 19 formula.

20 WIC, the Commodity Supplemental Food
21 Program and TEFAP need flexible regulation to 22 enable variable responses based on the 23 situation. Often to ensure FEMA reimbursement
24 orders are replaced following a disaster
25 assessment and supplies arrive 36 to 48 hours

1 or even later to a community. This may not be 2 enough time for infants.

3 Another possibility in a large quarantine
4 situation. Perhaps a plane load of passengers
5 with a smallpox or SARS exposure on that plane 6 would have to be quarantined. How and who 7 would pay to feed and house these individuals?
8 Can USDA Nutrition Program supply food, 9 including baby formula? Although those 10 quarantined may not be eligible for program
11 benefits, would FEMA reimburse in this 12 situation?

13 Another concern in response to a pandemic 14 where exposed individuals and families may be 15 quarantined in a home, how can we assure food 16 to families, especially infants and children, 17 who may lack the support system to assist them?
18 Can WIC, TEFAP and the Commodity Supplemental 19 Food Program provide food and formula to 20 quarantine homes although families may not meet 21 program criteria and are not in a mass feeding 22 situation? If not, how will these needs be 23 met? How can we recertify and certify families 24 in quarantine situations? How do we perform 25 program eligibility determination when families

1 are not quarantined that are advised to

2 minimize public exposure and don't want to come
3 in to our offices when we require face-to-face
4 proof of eligibility? Would these situations
5 also be considered a disaster for FEMA
6 reimbursement? The purpose of the National 7 COOP Planning Effort is to identify essential 8 functions and preplan to continue essential 9 services with alternate operations. It is 10 imperative that advanced dialogue involving all 11 federal state and key local partners continue 12 to focus on finding the best answers to these 13 and other feeding-related questions, so that we 14 can all be prepared working in concert for any 15 type of a future disaster. Thank you.

16 MS. DEAN: Number 12?

17 MR. DENNINGER: I'm 13 but they said
18 number 12 wasn't here.

19 MR. BOST: Lauren Daniel?

20 MR. DANIEL: Yes, I'm here, but I'm going 21 to pass on that.

22 MR. DENNINGER: I'm Frank Denninger from 23 Hi aleah, Florida, a citizen of Florida in the 24 U.S. I'm also here with a group called the 25 Florida Outdoor Alliance in Collier County,

45

1 Florida on the West Coast, east of Naples. I
2 don't know a lot about the Farm Bill. In fact
3 I have one question, if you could confirm it
4 for me, is this Public Law 104-127?

5 MR. BOST: What is the public law? Well, 6 the Farm Bill is --

7 MR. DENNINGER: I've heard it referred to 8 on some of these documents as the same thing.

9 MR. BOST: There are several titles that 10 are part of the Farm Bill. The nutrition 11 programs, there are six of them that are part 12 of the Farm Bill that will be discussed by 13 Congress in '07.

14 MR. DENNINGER: Okay, but the Farm Bill in 15 general, isn't it going to be revised then?

16 MR. BOST: Yes, it is.

17 MR. DENNINGER: Oh, okay. Let me go on.
18 I'm sorry. I'm getting my feet on the ground.

19 MR. BOST: Okay.

20 MR. DENNINGER: I support everything that 21 I'm hearing here today. I didn't know the Farm
22 Bill was so involved like it does. I guess
23 this is the forum to mention it directly but I 24 guess the Farm Bill also has a lot to do with 25 conservation and the Everglades restoration in

46

1 fact. And in fact the Everglades restoration, 2 I think, Section 29 includes $300 million 3 annually or totally to be expended for the 4 Everglades system. It may be additional or 5 part of 4 million, but in any case the 6 experience the local people have had in South 7 Florida from the East to the West Coast due to 8 Farm Bill money being accessed by the State of 9 Florida has basically been, in my opinion and 10 many others, the removal of sovereignty from 11 the State Land, the benefit of the money that 12 came from the Farm Bill in order to get the 13 money. The way I believe it was done was with 14 a framework agreement done way before any legal 15 processes that I ever became aware of where the 16 Department of Interior and the Corps of 17 Engineers, along with our Florida Department of 18 Environmental Protection and South Florida 19 Water Management made the deal to get the 20 Department of Interior and the Corps quite a 21 bit of oversight on land management on the 22 60,000 acres on the restoration project, the 23 first Everglades restoration project.

24 And ever since then people have been told 25 lots of reservation cannot be allowed in there

47

1 anymore because of the stipulation of the use 2 of Section 390.5, which are now the overseer of 3 those funds and how they are used is the 4 Protection and Wildlife Service of the United 5 States and people are basically outraged.

6 Personally, I'm upset that my state, in my 7 opinion, gave sovereignty away. I don't think 8 that's legal. I think it's really bad and I
9 have talked to attorneys and they have said
10 frankly, it really wasn't sovereignty, and I

11 said, whatever it was, it looked bad, it 12 smelled bad and tasted bad.

13 The citizens weren't much involved in the 14 whole process because it took place on October 15 the 3rd 1996 and the development of the EIS's
16 et cetera for the restoration took place here 17 recently in the last couple of years. And in 18 those 5 inches of documents there was only a 19 couple of sentences referred to the FP3 Grant.
20 And over the top of the state agency division 21 of forces, they put (inaudible) in reality the 22 final hammer comes down to the federal 23 agencies.

24 And, you know, we call that -- people talk 25 about federal trains -- I'm not really mad at 48

1 my federal government, because I am the federal 2 government, but a lot of me did (inaudible)
3 including me. I didn't catch it, but it should 4 have been discussed. Things might have been 5 done differently. And I would really 6 appreciate it if there is some clause going to 7 be put in the Farm Bill to prevent either
8 sovereignty -- and I just kind of found out 9 recently and rushed over and we don't get an 10 opportunity in part of the people to talk.
11 I've since suggested to the state to give the 12 38 million back. I appreciate you being here 13 and taking the time to hear our concerns.

14 Thank you.

15 MS. WARD: Good afternoon. My name is 16 Janet Ward. I'm the president and CEO of an 17 organization called Parents Information and 18 Resource Center, known as PIRC.

19 We are a community mental health center up 20 in the Lighthouse Point, Pompano Beach area of 21 Broward County. And I came here really for two 22 purposes. One was to talk about the issues 23 that we face in trying to go through the 24 application process to become a -- to receive 25 services of food through from the Department of 49

1 Agriculture.

2 And the second one was to see if we could 3 get some assistance in terms of feeding the 4 clients, the mentally ill clients that we 5 service at our center.

6 In 1992 I started this organization to 7 help parents and children who are in need of 8 services helping to maintain self-sufficiency
9 and over the years we have been evolving to a 10 community mental health center and we are a 11 partial day hospital program funded by Medicaid
12 and Medicare A and B.

13 Part of the issue that we face is that we 14 do a full day program. Our clients are with us 15 primarily four or more hours a day, and part of 16 the issue is how to feed them while some of 17       them come in early in the morning. They get 18       there at 7:30 and they are with us until 2:00, 19       3:00 in the afternoon or even later at times.

20             Many of them are on various kinds of 21       medication for diabetes, high blood pressure 22       and so forth and they need to eat. None of the 23       services that we provide is paid for -- pays 24       for food for them. So we are providing the 25       food out of our budget. And it's becoming such

50

1       a costly expenditure for us to provide food
2       each day.

3             In January we anticipate moving to a 4       larger location, taking on much more clients,
5       and the issue of how we feed them each day, 6       because they do need to eat when they are with 7       us, is becoming an ever growing problem for us.

8             We had tried to go through the Department 9       of Agriculture process to receive food under 10       the food program that you guys have, and it's 11       been very, very challenging to us. So we 12       wanted to -- I wanted to ask if there is a way 13       that the system could be a little more 14       user-friendly, that we have somebody assigned 15       to hold our hand, so to speak, through the 16       process.

17             The other thing that I wanted to see if 18       there is anyone here who currently knew a food
19       program in Broward County, if there was a way

20 that we could get food to provide to these 21 clients, because we would have to give them
22 something to eat, especially since the majority 23 of them receive medication from us.

24 We have the nurse practitioner. We have 25 three psychiatrists. We have another

51

1 registered nurse who takes care of them during 2 the day. Many of the people have stepped down 3 from inpatient hospitalization in psychiatric 4 hospitals to come to us for the day programs,
5 and so that's what we are looking for, somebody 6 to guide us and direct us as to how to get 7 through this process.

8 MR. BOST: Did everyone who was interested
9 in speaking speak? Is there someone else here
10 that would like to say something before I close 11 this out? We would like to take this 12 opportunity to thank you all for coming.

13 As I said earlier, what will happen is 14 that we will roll these comments up into other 15 comments that we have received from all over 16 the country. There are about five or six more 17 forums that are scheduled around the country.
18 The next one being in Portland, Oregon next 19 Tuesday. And so towards the end of this year 20 you will be able to go to our website and see 21 the other comments that were shared.

22 This is essentially the beginning of the

Miami.txt

23 process. We will take all the comments. We 24 will discuss them internally. I would look at 25 make some final decisions relative to

52

1 recommendations that we are interested in 2 presenting to Congress that would reflect the 3 administration's position regarding the 4 reauthorization of these programs.

5 We have gotten an early start in terms of 6 beginning that process because Congress won't 7 consider these until the '07 Farm Bill debate, 8 which is only a year away, but time goes 9 quickly. The most important thing that I want 10 to mention to you is that if you have 11 additional comments that you are interested in 12 making, you can always send those to us in the 13 mail and I think we will have addresses.

14 A couple of things in response to some of 15 the comments that were made, a couple of things 16 that I want to mention to you in closing. The 17 nutrition programs in this country that I'm 18 responsible for, I heard people talk about 19 resources dedicated to the nutrition program.
20 Since I have become secretary we are the only 21 agent in the federal government that has not 22 seen a decrease in our budget. There has been 23 an increase every single year.

24 The second thing is that we have done more 25 outreach to enroll eligible people in our

1 program than any administration over the course
2 of the last 25 years. We have seen an increase 3 in the number of eligible people in almost a 4 million people just in WIC alone. And just 5 this year alone our budget will probably go 6 from 52 billion to almost 58 billion dollars.

7 I grew up in the South and -- my mother
8 has this expression where talk is cheap. I 9 think that we have truly demonstrated our 10 commitment to programs in insuring, as I see 11 it, that eligible people that are interested in 12 participating in our programs have the 13 opportunity to do so.

14 Many of you talked about making it easier
15 to wade through the issue of the paperwork 16 banks. That's something that is very -- that 17 is something that we have also dedicated a 18 great deal of time and interest to also. We 19 are very interested in insuring that we strike
20 the balance. The balance being on the one
21 hand, people that are interested in enrolling 22 in our programs that are eligible, that it's 23 easy for them.

24 On the other hand, we are also interested 25 in insuring that people that have the

1 responsibility for implementing our programs
2 that it's easy for them to do that. And I'm 3 also looking that we don't compromise that 4 level of integrity for those people that are 5 eligible and those people that have the 6 responsibility for managing those programs.

7 And one of the things that I will tell you 8 that I have said in a couple of the forums is 9 the fact that I have people who come to me,
10 especially the agency providers who say to me, 11 Mr. Secretary, why don't you do away with this 12 paperwork? Why don't you do this so it's 13 easier for us to implement our program? And we 14 say, yeah, we'll make it easier and then 15 inevitably we do away with some of those 16 requirements and inevitably someone does 17 something that they are not supposed to do, and 18 then there is -- the Miami Herald does a big 19 expose. Congress calls me to testify. I get a 20 spanking. I call you and I say to you, didn't 21 ya'll ask me to do this? You are nowhere to 22 be found. You are back there behind me, but 23 when I'm on the Hill and those great folks in 24 Florida said, this would make it so easy for 25 people to enroll in the program. It would mean

55

1 so much less paperwork and they say well
2 Mr. Bost, where are those people? And I say
3 well, they are not here today. They couldn't

Miami.txt

4        come to D.C. and get this spanking with me.
5                We are very sensitive to that. We are 6        always looking for those opportunities, but I 7        am not going to compromise the integrity of our 8        programs because it might make it easier for 9        you. If it makes it easier for you and does 10       not compromise the integrity of our programs, 11       then absolutely and we are very, very, open to 12       any suggestions that anyone has about our 13       programs.
14                Again, thank you so very much for being 15       here. We appreciate your comments and have a 16       very safe and good afternoon. Thank you.
17                (Thereupon, the proceedings were 18       concluded.)
